FOR SALE,

A MILL, with about 500 acres of Land adjoining, situated on Broad Run, in Prince William County, below Buckland. The mill-house is two stories high, and has two pair of stones in it. It is said to be situated upon the best stream in that country, and the seat as well calculated for a mill as any upon that stream. The mill has been rented for several years, but having been conveyed to a gentleman in Philadelphia, has not been attended to; consequently it is probable that it is not in the best order. It rented, however, for the last two years, with some of the land, at about 80l. per year. The land will be sold with the mill. One third of the purchase-money will be required in hand, and the other two thirds in annual instalments. The purchaser shall receive his deed upon the first payment, but a mortgage will be required upon the premises to secure the residue.

CONTINUATION OF

Late Foreign Intelligence.

[BY THE FANNY, ARRIVED AT NEW YORK.]

LONDON, MARCH 12.

In their determination to render, if poſsible, the character of Buonaparte popular in this country, the oppoſition writers have undertaken a taſk which, in ſpite of their uſual obſtinacy upon theſe points, we think they will find it very difficult to perform—they have repreſented the report that a ſmall quantity of wheat is about to be ſhipped from France for this country, as a proof of the liberality and generoſity of the chief conſul. Do they really think that they can make ſuch dupes of the people of England, as to impoſe upon them ſo fooliſh an opinion?

We can underſtand the motives of theſe writers in exaggerating (in conjunction with M. Saladin) the reſources of France, and in depreciating thoſe of this country; we can conceive them at one moment repreſenting Buonaparte as a moſt tyrannical Uſurper, and at another a moſt virtuous and enlightened chief conſul; ſuch changes and ſhifting we are accuſtomed to from them; we can alſo ſuppoſe them laying the ground for trying ſhortly to perſuade the country that he has proved himſelf capable of the relations of Peace and Amity—and for maintaining that a negociation for peace ought to be entered upon without delay—but to repreſent him as a generous enemy, after all that we know of his conduct in Italy and in Egypt, is really too bold and deſperate an attempt for the ſturdieſt adventurer of the Jacobin School.

It might perhaps be as well for theſe gentlemen who are diſpoſed ſo much to extol Buonaparte upon this occaſion, to aſcertain that this corn had actually arrived in our ports, before they reaſoned ſo much upon the diſintereſted motives of the chief conſul in ſending it. But even if it ſhould ever arrive, will not the conduct of the chief conſul be a little ſuſpicious? Will it not appear a little over generous? We know that Spain the Ally of France, has interceded to France in vain, for a ſupply of corn; we muſt then ſuppoſe one of thoſe two things—either that we have ſomething to give in return for grain, which France wants more, and which is the real inducement to this exportation, and then there is an end to the generoſity of the chief conſul; or that Buonaparte will do a kindneſs to an enemy which he refuſes to a friend; and if ſo, the war is the cauſe of our obtaining a ſupply—not the means of preventing it.

Letters from Munich ſtate, that a body of 12,000 Batavian troops are to ſet out on the 25th March, to join the army of the Archduke.

The Porte (ſays the Vienna Gazette) has declared to the Houſe of Auſtria its intention to conclude a peace with France.

The Clef du Cabinet of the 7th ſays, "It appears certain that the campaign will very ſoon be opened; that the firſt Conſul will put himſelf at the head of one of our armies, and that on the 22d inſt. 600 of his guard will ſet off to repair thither. With what new ardour for conqueſt will not the preſence of ſuch a Gen. inſpire our ſoldiers! "Sire," ſaid the Marſhal de Villars to Louis XIV, "I am going to fight your enemies, and I leave you in the midſt of mine."

The following obſervation is made in a letter from Caſſel, under date of the 22d of Feb.—"We conſider as a ſign of peace the order given by the Imperial miniſter to the Editors of public journals at Ratiſbon, to abſtain from all indecent language againſt the French government.

The Clef du Cabinet of the 3d, contains the following articles from Berlin, under date of the 23d ult. "They talk of an offenſive and defenſive alliance between our court and that of France, againſt certain deſigns which certain powers are ſuppoſed to entertain againſt us. It is ſaid that our miniſters were ſeriouſly engaged with this object in the late conference which they had with the French ambaſſador. Although this important intelligence be yet but a report, it is nevertheleſs given ſo circumſtantially, that it is difficult not to give credit to it, particularly when we ſee Ruſſia aſſembling ſo many troops on our frontiers."

Orders have been received at Weſel to prepare lodgings for the duke of Brunſwick, general Mollendorf, and ſeveral other Pruſſian general officers, who are expected from Berlin. The Pruſſian troops approach Nuremberg, and are already in the environs of that town.

MARCH 13.

The right wing of the firſt diviſion of the Coldſtream regiment of guards, and the right wing of the Third guards, aſſembled this morning at ſix o'clock, and at 7 commenced their march for Portſmouth. To morrow the left diviſions follow.—Their preſent deſtination is Ireland; but it is ſuppoſed that in conjunction with the light infantry and firſt battalion of the firſt guards, who are expected to march every hour, they will compoſe a conſiderable part of one of the expeditions which have been ſo long in contemplation.—They are completed with healthy, ſtrong men, and in the whole will amount to nearly 5000 men.

Some of the laſt French journals aſſert that the retreat of the Ruſſians has induced the elector of Bavaria to decline furniſhing the Palatine troops which were to have been taken into the pay of England; and the levies of the peaſants in the frontier circles have failed to procure the deſired effect. The corps of Conde, they add, is about to be diſbanded.

Although Carnot has ſo recently returned from his exile, he is conſidered in France, as the perſon of the greateſt influence after Buonaparte.

All the deputies deported by the French revolution of the 4th of September, who have not fallen victims to that ſanguinary criſis, have been ſuffered to return to France, and moſt of them now enjoy the higheſt favor. Lafond Ladebar, and Barbe Marbois, are juſt arrived at Breſt from Guiana.

Nouet has written from Egypt, that ſome of the literati, there intended to undertake an expedition into Upper Egypt as far as the tropic of cancer; at the time he diſpatched his letter, he was on the point of ſetting out on his journey thither.

MARCH 15.

Should the Emperor die, the Regency of the Hereditary States would devolve by right to the Grand Duke of Tuſcany.

A letter from Munich, dated March 2, ſays—"Amidſt preparations for the war, people ſtill ſpeak of peace; and it is aſſerted that the Court of Vienna is not far from an agreement with the French Republic. It is even poſitively aſſerted, that the negociations between the two powers are far advanced, and that the diſpatches which General Stippchuts carried to Vienna, and which had been delivered on the part of the French to the Auſtrian advanced poſts, are of the utmoſt importance in regard to peace. It is therefore very doubtful whether the campaign will in reality be opened, and it is probable that the circumſtance of the Emperor's illneſs will enſure to France honorable conditions, and ſuch as are agreeable to its wiſhes.

A Journal on the frontiers of the Rhine announces the ſudden death of the King of Denmark. It was known that this Prince had for ſome years been in a deranged ſtate, and that his ſon had taken the reins of Government on himſelf.—His death will produce no change in the political relations of Denmark.

MARCH 17.

The expedition, to be commanded by Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Stewart, is in conſiderable forwardneſs. Major generals Simcoe, St. Clair, and Moore, are to be employed on this expedition, from which the country may expect all that can be atchieved by brave and ſkilful officers, and troops. The Mediterranean has been mentioned as their theatre for action; but the Downs, ſo oppoſite a point, being ordered as the place of rendezvous, will afford new food for our politicians. The 16th light dragoons is ſaid to be under orders for embarkation, it is not added whether to form a part of this expedition, which the French are ſo apprehenſive to be intended againſt Breſt, that their ſhipping has been ordered to the Inner Harbour. The troops under General Stewart, it will be obſerved, do not compriſe any of thoſe from or in Ireland, but ſuch as have been completed from the Engliſh militia, which having been inliſted to ſerve in Europe only, precludes the idea that Egypt is their deſtination.

The preparations for the 2d expedition continue unabated. It is intended to compoſe the brigades of guards, together with the Iriſh regiments, and thoſe about to be augmented by recruits from the militia of that country, &c. The deſtination of this powerful body has been ſome time determined, but the period of action will depend upon particular circumſtances, as will the diſpoſition of the troops about to be conveyed from Ruſſia.

We have already intimated that orders had been iſſued to report the condition of all the flat bottomed boats in the river, &c. In conſequence of ſubſequent orders, ſuch of them as are fit for ſervice, are to immediately rendezvous at Sheerneſs.

Orders have been iſſued to the officers on leave in Great Britain and Ireland, from regiments at Gibralter and Minorca, immediately to prepare to take their paſſage for theſe garriſons in a ſhip which is appointed to convoy them.

Monſieur, the Duke of Orleans and his two brothers, the Duke of Bourbon, all the French Biſhops reſident in London, and a great number of French Emigrants of every deſcription, aſſiſted on Saturday laſt at the French Chapel in King-ſtreet, Portmanſquare, to celebrate a ſolemn funeral ſervice for the Royaliſts who periſhed in the Weſtern Departments of France fighting for the Altar and the Throne.

The following is a copy of a letter from his Grace the Duke of Portland, to his Majeſty's Conſuls reſident at Tangiers, Algiers, Tunis, and Tripoli:

Whitehall, February 28, 1800.

SIR,

I am to ſignify to you his majeſty's pleaſure, that you ſhould uſe your utmoſt endeavour, and employ all your influence, to induce the emperor of Morocco to encourage the exportation of grain from his dominions to Great Britain and Ireland, and particularly to obtain from the emperor general permiſſion for this purpoſe, to all thoſe of his Majeſty's ſubjects who ſhall engage in this trade, or who ſhall, by themſelves or agents, be employed in purchaſing grain in the emperor's dominions; and you will at the ſame time, afford to ſuch perſons or their agents every aid and aſſiſtance in your power, in procuring cargoes, and in all their tranſactions with the natives for that purpoſe. You will not fail to enforce your application on this ſubject by informing the emperor that all the ports of both kingdoms are opened until the end of September next, for the importation of grain free from any duty or impoſt whatever, which circumſtance muſt render the exportation of that article from Morocco extremely advantageous to the ſubjects of his Imperial Majeſty.

I am, &c.

FRENCH REPUBLIC.

CONSULATE.

Extract from the deliberations of the Conſuls of the Republic.

Paris, 17 Ventoſe (March 8.) the eighth year of the republic, one and indiviſible.

The Conſuls of the Republic decree.

Art. 1. There ſhall be raiſed an army of reſerve of 60,000 men.

2 It ſhall be commanded directly by the firſt conſul.

3. The artillery ſhall be commanded by general St Remy. The Park, by the chief brigade, Gaſſendi. The engineers by the firſt inſpector of engineers, Mareſcot.

4. The commiſſary Dubreton ſhall diſcharge the functions of commiſſary in chief.

5. The different corps of conſcripts of which the army is to be compoſed, ſhall ſet out immediately on their march for Dijon; they ſhall be cantoned within the circumference of twenty leagues.

6. The miniſter of war is charged with the execution of the preſent arrete. He ſhall adopt all meaſures to collect at Dijon all the neceſſary articles for the cloathing and equipping the army of reſerve.

(Signed) BUONAPARTE.

By the firſt Conſul.

The Secretary of State,

(Signed) H. B. MARET.

In the tribunate, in the ſitting of March 8, the Preſident read a letter from citizen Maret, ſecretary of ſtate, which informed the tribunate that the government was about to ſend a meſſenger from the council of ſtate to communicate to them a new proclamation to the French, and two orders which had been iſſued.

After ſome time, citizen Champagny was introduced to that capacity.

"Government (ſaid he,) always anxious to unite with you in whatever intereſts the proſperity and the glory of the republic, think it their duty to communicate to you their arrangements in circumſtances ſo important as the preſent.

"The campaign is on the point of being opened; this is ſufficient to inform you that peace is about to be made, either by the mere ſhew of war, or by the ſucceſſes by which it will be crowned. Have no doubt on this ſubject, citizen Tribunes.

"Peace is inceſſantly the object of anxious ſolicitude with the preſent government. They deſire it; they promiſe it to the French people: they have offered it to the coaleſced powers; if the latter, deaf to the voice of humanity and of reaſon, perſiſt in refuſing it, the republic will prove to them that though ſhe is deſirous of peace, ſhe knows how to make war.

"Government have charged me to communicate the arrangements which they have made to begin, and to carry on the war. It is they who ſpeak and in the proclamation addreſſed, you will recognize the ſentiments which animate, and the genius which inſpires them."

The orator here read the proclamation in theſe words;

PROCLAMATION

Of the Conſuls of the Republic to the French

"FRENCHMEN,

"You are deſirous of peace; your government are deſirous of it with ſtill greater ardour. Their firſt wiſhes, their perſevering meaſures, have been for peace. The Engliſh Adminiſtration repels it; the Engliſh adminiſtration has betrayed the ſecret of its horrible policy. To ravage France, to deſtroy her marine and her ports; to efface her from the map of Europe or to degrade her to the rank of ſecondary power, to keep all the nations of the Continent divided, in order to get poſſeſſion of the commerce of all, and to enrich herſelf by their ſpoils; it is to obtain theſe frightful ſucceſſes that England is prodigal of gold, profuſe of promiſes, and that ſhe multiplies intrigues.

"But neither the gold, nor the promiſes, nor the intrigues of England, will change to her views the powers of the continent. They have heard the wiſh of France, they know the moderation of the principles that guide her; they will liſten to the voice of their intereſt.

"Were it otherwiſe, the government, which has not feared to offer and ſolicit peace, will remember that it is for you to command it. To command it, we muſt have money, arms, and ſoldiers.

"Let all make haſte to pay the tribute which they owe to the common defence; let the young citizens march. It is no longer for factions—it is no longer for the choice of tyrants, that they are going to arm; it is for the guarantee of all that is moſt dear to them; it is for the honor of France; it is for the ſacred intereſts of humanity and of liberty. Already have the armies reſumed that attitude, the promiſe and the preſage of victory; at the ſight of them—at the ſight of the whole nation united in the ſame intereſts and the ſame wiſhes, do not doubt, Frenchmen, that you will have any more enemies upon the conteſt. The firſt conſul has promiſed peace; he will go and conquer it at the head of thoſe warriors whom he has more than once led to victory. With them he will know how to find again thoſe fields ſtill full of the remembrance of their exploits; yet in the midſt of battle, he will ſtill invoke peace, and he ſwears to fight only for the happineſs of France, and the repoſe of the world!"

Extract from the Regiſter of the Tribunate.

The Tribunate decrees, that the ſpeakers choſen from its body do carry the following reſolution and wiſh to the conſuls of the republic.

That the French people, impreſſed with ſentiments of their deareſt intereſts, exiſtence, honor and independence, ſhould rally round the government by all the means which may more effectually ſecure to them thoſe bleſſings; that all the neceſſary ſacrifices be acceded to by the people ſo as to ſecure the value of thoſe they have already made; that it is their ardent wiſh that the firſt conſul ſhould return as a conqueror and a peace-maker. Such are the reſolutions and wiſh of the tribunal.

The three ſpeakers appointed are Jean Debry, Chauvelin and Berenger.

The preſent decree ſhall be tranſmitted to the conſervative ſenate and the legiſlative body, by a meſſenger of ſtate.

Compared with the original by us, the president and secretaries of the tribunate.

18 Ventose, March 9.

The Answer of the First Consul.

The consuls of the Republic easily discover, in what you have addressed to them, the commendable sentiments that have animated the tribunate throughout the whole of its sittings. Every hope of continental peace is not yet vanquished. Should it be impossible for the republic to realize speedily the last of the wishes which you have just expressed, in the name of the tribunate, the unanimity and courage of Frenchmen are certain guarantees for the accomplishment of the first.

BUONAPARTE.

Decree of the 24 March.

The consuls of the republic, wishing to decide upon the fate of the Frenchmen who were the first to acknowledge and proclaim to the constituent assembly the principles of equality, decree as follows;

Art. 1. The members of the constituent assembly, inscribed on the list of emigrants, shall present to the minister of general police authentic attestations in proof of their having been desirous for the establishment of equality and the abolition of the noblesse, and that they have not since made any protestation, or done any act contrary to these principles.

2. The members of the constituent assembly who shall obtain their erasure from the list by virtue of these presents, shall be restored to the enjoyment of their property that may not have been sold: but they shall not claim any indemnification for what may have been disposed of.

ARMY of the WEST.

The disarming of the insurgents is carried on at once in all parts of the departments of the West. On the 24th Feb. gen. Brune had actually collected in the magazines in the Mordihan 10,000 stand of arms, in consequence of this measure. The instructions given by general Hedouville for the disarming the 22d military district.

General Muller executes the measure with activity in the 12th military district. The Gendarmerie, reinforced by some moveable columns, are in pursuit of some bands of robbers, who alone remain of the Chouan troops.

In the 14th district, since the death of Frotte, and his principal chiefs, and the arrest of an hundred of his chief officers, tranquility is perfectly re established.

Gen of division Gardanne, and, under his command, generals Guidal and Dumoulin, superintend the disarming of this district. Gen. Pully seconds their operations in his circle.—General Avril is now in pursuit of the rebel chiefs Beauregard and Henry, who persist in refusing to acknowledge the laws of the republic. The peasants begin to rise against these brigades in the canton of Pre en-Paille. They have killed six of them.

Chatillon, Bourmont, d'Autichamp and Bernier are in Paris. Georges is on the road too, and every thing seems to shew, that tranquility in the departments of the West is solid, and the authority of the republic as firmly established as in the rest of the republic.

The Constitution has been puplished with the greatest solemnity in the department of Morbihan. It is the object of the people, and wishes of all the inhabitants of these unfortunate countries.—Moniteur.

STOCKHOLM, FEB. 17.

The foreign papers have given incorrect accounts of the disturbances which occurred lately at Gothemburg, and in the province of Ostrogothia. The bad harvest last year, by occasioning a scarcity of grain, produced a considerable increase in the price. The government had confined to a very small number of individuals the privilege of making brandy from grain. In plentiful years this distillery was free; but to prevent too great consumption, it had been restrained, and at length converted into a privilege, by which government gained considerably. A person named Biornberg had obtained that privilege for Gottenburg. The Burghers remonstrated with the government; in order that the privilege might be withdrawn, they offered to pay the sum which government were to receive. The minister refused to accede to these representations; and M. Biornberg, who besides was by no means liked, having become more insolent since his triumph, the populace rose and destroyed his house, after having burnt all his furniture. He owed his own safety to flight. As soon as the disturbances broke out, the commandant of the town ordered the generale to be beat, and troops were sent to disperse the populace, which was effected without opposition. In Ostrogothia some peasants rose and wished to set fire to the distillery, but troops being sent in time, the peasants seperated without effecting their purpose; some were taken & punished; but all kind of uneasiness and disturbance were at an end, as soon as the government had absolutely prohibeted the distillation from grain under severe penalties.

Alexandria, May 13.

Extract of a letter from a Merchant in Liverpool, dated March 14, to a gentleman in this Town—received by an arrival at Norfolk.

"The alarming scarcity of Corn has already called for the interference of the Legislature; and a committee of the house of Commons have recommended to government, to encourage the importation of wheat, wheat Flour, and rice, from America; and suggested that until the 1st of October, 1800, when the average price of wheat should be under 90s. per quarter of 8 Winchester bushels, and flour 90s. per 280 lbs. the importers should be allowed a bounty equal to the difference between the average price and 90s.—Also upon rice equal to the difference between the average price and 35s. per 112 lbs. when the average is below 35s. It likewise recommended the same encouragement for the importation of Indian Corn. Whether these measures will be adopted is not yet certain, though very probable."

THE BANK OF FRANCE.

The following account of this establishment appears in the Paris journals:—

The funds of the bank of France amount to thirty millions of francs, which are divided into thirty thousand shares.—The bank is empowered to discount bills of exchange and promissary notes, having three signatures of French citizens, or foreign merchants of known solvability; to advance money on a cash account with individuals and public establishments; and to issue notes payable to the bearer, both at sight, and a certain number of days after.

But it shall advance no monies on securities resulting from transactions contrary to the interest of the republic or to legal commerce, not upon mere bills of accommodation.

The general court of the bank will be composed of the 200 proprietors, who, being citizens of France, possess the greatest number of shares. This circumstance will be ascertained at the conclusion of every quarter; and in cases where the amount is equal, the preference will be given according to the date of subscription. The affairs of the bank are to be under the immediate management of 15 regents, and three censors, to be chosen by the general court. The regents and censors must be individually possessed of thirty, or collectively of 540 shares.

A general court is to be held on the 25th Vendemaire of every year; but it may be extraordinarily convoked by the regency, for the purpose of proposing changes or modifications of the fundemental statutes. The transfers of the shares are to be made on the order of the holder, presented by one of the accredited agents of the bank, of which, as a security for their conduct, they must themselves possess a certain number of shares. The agents and censors will hold a general council every six months, for declaring the dividends, which will be paid in Paris by the cashier of the bank, and in the chief place of every department, by the correspondents of the bank.

A duel has been fought in Philadelphia by Messrs. C. G. Champlin and James A. Bayard, Members of Congress. The following is the conclusion of the Seconds' Certificate relative thereto—

Mr. Bayard fired on receiving the word, and Mr. Champlin one or two seconds after—Mr. Bayard's ball entered Mr. Champlin's left cheek near the mouth, and passed out below the ear. Mr. Champlin's ball hit Mr. Bayard on the right thigh some inches above the knee; they are both flesh wounds. Mr. Bayard's is extremely slight, and it is more than probable Mr. Champlin will be sufficiently recovered to go abroad in a few days—The seconds being of opinion that the parties should not proceed, communicated their sentiments to the gentlemen who met half way, shook hands, and declared that no enmity was felt by either. Both the gentlemen displayed throughout the whole of this transaction, the greatest coolness, determination and courage it was possible to exhibit.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 7.

Extract of a letter from capt. Little, of the Boston frigate, to the Secretary of the Navy, dated

"At Sea, 10th March.

"On the first March, being between St. Gonaives and the Point of St. Mark, with a merchant brig in tow, bound to Port-au-Prince, I saw nine barges making towards me from the Island of Gonaives, having about 20 oars each, and each carrying from 30 to 40 men: their object was the Boston. On discovering them I ordered my guns to be instantly housed, to decoy them if possible, which answered the intended effect in some measure. On approaching within shot they found their mistake and turned to run away from me. The guns were immediately run out and a fire commenced, which lasted two hours, during which time I destroyed three of the barges with the crews: the rest were so fortunate as to reach the island, but in a most shattered condition."

HAVING, for upwards of 18 years past, suffered very much in my property (as well as in other respects) by my wife, Sarah H. Cannon, who left my bed and board near three years ago without the least semblance of cause, and with her carried off a considerable property of mine, consisting of Household Furniture, and four Negroes, viz. Lands for Sale, or exchange for other Property.

SEVEN hundred and eighty-eight acres in the county of Hampshire, on the waters of Great Cape Capon, about 20 miles from the Warm Springs, and 30 from Winchester.—This land is full of wood, oak and Pine Timber. Two excellent farms may be made, with 30 to 50 acres of bottom, and rich high lands to each; and in the heart of the timber there is a fine seat for a saw-mill. Capt. Daniel Rice will shew the lands.

Three thousand eight hundred and forty-five acres in the county of Ohio, on the waters of Grave and Fish creeks, near the river Ohio, and about 80 miles below Pittsburg. Some of these lands are very good, with considerable quantities of rich bottom, and plenty of excellent timber. Robert Woods, Esq. the Surveyor of that county, will shew these lands.

One hundred seventy six and three-fourths acres, within three miles of the Warm Springs, upon Great Cape-Capon, near its mouth, and within ¼ of a mile of the River Potomak. This land has about 70 to 80 acres of rich bottom, mostly in cultivation, with 274 fine sugar trees on it; from which, I am informed, there may be made 3000lb. of good sugar annually. There is also a seat for grist and saw mills on it, equal to any in that neighbourhood, and upon a never failing stream of water. The upland is rich, with plenty of timber, and part under cultivation. This farm is well improved with a good orchard, houses and fencing, and rented last year for produce equal to sixty pounds per an. Mr. Joseph Butler, at the Warm Springs, will shew it. I will sell all, or any of the above lands for cash, or upon credit, or take in exchange for them lands in Fairfax County, or Lots of land in the town of Alexandria, or the city of Washington.

MARCUS,

One of the House-Servants at Mount Vernon,

ABSCONDED on the second instant, and since has not been heard of. He is a young lad, about 16 years of age, a bright Mulatto, dark blue eyes, long black hair, about 5 feet 4 or 5 inches high, and of a slender make. He had on when he left this place a coat and jacket of dark mixture, black and white, and black breeches—but having various suits, one of black, and another of very light drab, it is uncertain which of these he now wears. Originally his name was Billy, and possibly he may resume the same. It is very probable he may attempt to pass for one of those Negroes that did belong to the late General Washington, and whom Mrs. Washington intends in the Fall of this year to liberate—the public are therefore warned against any such imposition, as he is one of those Negroes which belong to the estate of Washington P. Custis, Esq. and held by right of dower by Mrs. Washington during her life.

I will give Ten Dollars Reward to any person who shall apprehend the said Negro and lodge him in some safe gaol, upon producing me a certificate to that effect; and will also pay all reasonable charges over and above this Reward, for the delivery of him to me at this place.

Ship Masters are hereby forewarned not to take on board Marcus; and those who are found to secrete or harbour him, will be punished as the law directs.

JOHN HAIR, a very handsome man, born in Chester County, Pennsylvania, aged 19 years, 6 feet high, blue eyes, light hair, and fair complexion; wore a gingham coat.
